Dewey to Stop Running for N. Y. Governor

Sweet Music to Democrats — and Some Republicans

BULLETIN
NEW YORK (CP)—Sen. Irving M. Laves agreed today to accept the Republican nomination for governor, left open Tuesday night by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's announcement that he would not run for a fourth term, it was learned today.

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (CP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, who almost made gangbusting pay him off with a presidential jackpot, shucked his campaign gear into the trophy room Tuesday night, and this time he seems to mean it. He is 52 years old.

Dewey told a New York state television audience that he would not seek an unprecedented fourth term. The speech was sweet music to New York Democrats and to some countless thousands — maybe millions — of Republicans who did not like Dewey. All will be glad to see him out if for different reasons. He was top man in the Eastern or so-called international wing of the Republican party and the politician most responsible for making Dwight D. Eisenhower the 1952 Republican presidential nominee. Dewey to Democrats had become the unbeatable man in New York.

Was District Attorney At 35
Whatever it may have been, it was not doubt of success or fear of precedent which prevented Dewey from seeking a fourth term as governor of New York state. Dewey was the brash thing in politics in his early days from the moment in 1937 when he was elected district attorney of New York County (Manhattan Island) until some time thereafter. In 1937 Dewey was 35 years old.

Democratic Senator Herbert H. Lehman a few years earlier named Dewey special state prosecutor to clean up Manhattan Island. Two years later Dewey won election as Republican DA for the area and the next year, aged 36 years, he was running for governor against Lehman.

Lost to Lehman and Willkie
Lehman licked him by a skinny 64,000 votes. Before his 38th birthday District Attorney Dewey was off on his 1940 campaign for the Republican presidential nomination, which he lost to the late Wendell L. Willkie.

Two years later he was elected governor of New York, the first Republican in that office in 20 years. He's been there ever since and has had time, too boot, to win the 1944 and 1948 Republican presidential nominations.

Two years later in 1950 Dewey put on a slam bang campaign for reelection as governor that had Democrats groggy from the first speech and the citizens bouncing out of their chairs to cheer. It was in that campaign that Dewey hit his old enemy the late Robert A. Taft, by whooping it up for the 1952 nomination of Dwight D. Eisenhower for president.

Dewey was a factor in Taft's loss of the 1944 Republican presidential nomination. He beat Taft's man for the nomination in 1948, Sen. John W. Bricker, of Ohio. And two years ago when Mr. Republican made his last stand for the nomination in his own right, it was largely Dewey's strategy over a two-year period which produced the Republican winner.

NYC to Build Huge Structure on Site of Grand Central Terminal

NEW YORK (CP)—Robert R. Young, who recently gained control of the New York Central Railroad, has announced tentative plans to construct one of the tallest buildings in the world on the site of Grand Central Terminal.

Young said the 100-million-dollar structure would be the world's largest privately owned office building. He said the new building would contain five million square feet of office space, one million more than Chicago's Merchandise Mart, now the world's largest private office building.

Alarm Goes Out For Stolen Tax Stamp Machine

Issued to Chicago Tobacco Firm; Fear Renewal of Racket

CHICAGO (CP)—State Revenue Director Richard J. Lyons issued a statewide alarm today in an effort to recover a stolen cigarette tax stamping machine.

The machine, which had been issued to the Hesser Tobacco House, Inc., was stolen Tuesday from a parked car. It was the second such theft since July.

The theft of several machines a few years ago resulted in the development of a counterfeiting racket estimated to have cost the state millions of dollars in tobacco tax.

Lyons notified the Federal Bureau of Investigation of the latest theft. He said the machine could be taken to any one of several states which use similar stamping devices.

The machine was stolen from the trunk of a car owned by Carl Weiss, 58, an employee of the Hesser firm. Weiss had parked near a bank, where he went to get a certified check to pay the state for resetting the machine.

Rudolph Guth, 56, owner of the tobacco company, discussed the theft with reluctance.

"I don't want to be a dead hero," he said.

He said that last May three masked gunmen robbed his firm $100 and fired a shot through the front door.

Guth said he believes the gunmen were after the stamping machine, which was locked in a vault at the time.

Lyons said Tuesday's theft was "further indication" that criminals are "trying to get back into the cigarette tax stamp racket."

Local Contractors Low On School Building In Hamilton County

Two Harrisburg contractors were among the three apparent low bidders to construct a school building in Hamilton county, R. D. Brown, architect, revealed today.

H. E. Mitchell and Son, Contractors, was low, with alternates deducted, on the general contract, and Harrisburg Electric Co. was low on the contract for wiring.

Low on the heating and plumbing contract was the Main Hardware Co. of Fairfield.

The school building will be for the Community Consolidated District 103 in Flannigan township seven miles west of Dale.

The low bids totalled approximately $64,000, Brown stated.

Elks Show Dates Set October 6-7

Wednesday and Thursday, October 6-7, are the dates for the fifth annual Harrisburg Elks Minstrel and Revue, to be presented at the Grand theatre, general chairman Gene Schriener announced today.

Each year for the past four years the Elks have presented their all local talent minstrel revue, with all the proceeds going to the Elks' crippled children's fund, and this year's show promises to be the best yet.

"What's Your Game?" is the title of the show, a brand new, elaborate minstrel-musical revue, with all-new, all-different, colorful costumes, scenery, and plot. Sam Grogg, from the John B. Rogers Producing company of Fostoria, Ohio, will return for his fifth year as director of the show. With a group of veteran local entertainers to build the show around, Grogg expects one of the finest local productions ever staged here.

"Rather than ask the public for donations to help us carry on our crippled children's activities," Exalted Ruler H. E. Mitchell Jr. said today, "our lodge is of the opinion that if we provide some worthwhile entertainment for the public, one in which they will really get their money's worth, we can expect more support and assistance."

This is one of five general counts on the basis of which McCarthy's Senate critics have asked the Senate to rebuke him.

Gen. Lawton Won't Talk
McCarthy began his testimony after Maj. Gen. Kirke B. Lawton, former commandant at Fort Monmouth, N. J., refused at a morning session to testify about a discussion he had with Zwicker concerning McCarthy.

Another witness for McCarthy, William J. Hardin, 60, New York City salesman, told how he once overheard Zwicker mutter, "You S. O. B.," after being questioned by McCarthy during an investigation.

Zwicker stared poker-faced at the ceiling of the Senate caucus room as McCarthy testified.

McCarthy said he first became aware of the Peress case in November, 1953. Zwicker at the time was commanding general of Camp Kilmer, N. J., where Peress was stationed, McCarthy said.

McCarthy said he or his staff turned the information over to the Army sometime about December. He said he did not recall the exact date.

Cites Presidential Order
Lawton said he was prevented from doing so by a May 17 order issued by President Eisenhower. The order banned executive department officials from testifying about confidential conferences held within the executive branch.

The McCarthy side said Lawton had been gagged by the Defense Department. But a department spokesman said this was not so.

McFarland Wins Demo Governor Nomination In Arizona Primary

PHOENIX, Ariz. (CP)—Ernest W. McFarland won an impressive victory in securing the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in Tuesday's primary. Incomplete returns showed today. It signified a political comeback for the former majority leader of the Fair Deal days.

The veteran politician now will face Gov. Howard Pyle, Republican incumbent, in the general election. Pyle won office in 1950 and was re-elected in 1952. Pyle ran unopposed in Arizona's primary election Tuesday.

M'Carthy Says Had Told Army About Peress

Takes Stand for Self; Witness States General Called Solon Bad Name

WASHINGTON (CP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, his own star defense witness against censure charges, swore today that he told the Army about former Maj. Irving Peress a month before he questioned the Army dentist he calls a "Fifth Amendment Communist."

McCarthy, under the friendly questioning of his own counsel, Edward Bennett Williams, began his case before a special Senate committee with a defense against the charges that he abused Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker in trying to learn who ordered Peress' honorable discharge.

McCarthy said he first became aware of the Peress case in November, 1953. Zwicker at the time was commanding general of Camp Kilmer, N. J., where Peress was stationed, McCarthy said.

McCarthy said he or his staff turned the information over to the Army sometime about December. He said he did not recall the exact date.

Historic Southeast Asia Pact Signed; Binds East, West Against Aggression

By ROBERT UDICK
United Press Staff Correspondent
MANILA, P. I. (CP)—Eight nations signed today an historic pact that bound the free East and West together against further aggression and subversion in Southeast Asia.

The United States became a party to the alliance with the understanding that it would take action only against Communist aggression but would consult with any nation attacked by a non-Communist country.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Sens. H. Alexander Smith (R-N. J.) and Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) signed for the United States.

Dulles, father of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization conference, called the treaty an Asiatic "Monroe Doctrine" because it guarantees Southeast Asia against aggression and colonialism.

The SEATO nations — Australia, France, New Zealand, Pakistan, the Philippines, Thailand, the United Kingdom and the United States — agreed to:

1. Settle international disputes in which they may be involved by peaceful means according to principles set forth in the charter of the United Nations.

2. Maintain and develop their individual and collective capacity to resist armed attack and prevent subversion.

3. Recognize that aggression against any of the parties would endanger the peace and safety of other partners and agree to act to meet the common danger in ac-

Enrollment by Schools in City Is Released

Big Dorrisville Increase Gives Favorable Average

Enrollment in the Harrisburg City Schools for the new term is slightly under what was anticipated, but a large increase at Dorrisville has given a favorable all-Harrisburg average, first week enrollment figures show.

The Harrisburg enrollment as of Tuesday was 1,621 as compared with 1,604 on the first day after Labor Day in 1953. However, with addition of Cain, Bankston and Pleasant Valley districts to District 43, a higher figure had been anticipated.

The gain in Harrisburg by addition of new districts was almost wiped out by removals of Harrisburg district residents, especially from the Logan school area, to the new housing project in the Dorrisville district. As a result, Dorrisville's enrollment jumped from 217 last year to 314 this year.

The enrollment by schools:
	1953 1954
Horace Mann	352 368
McKinley	458 443
Bayliss	121 123
Logan	225 199
Lincoln	37 25
Junior High	342 360
Dorris Heights	39 49
Liberty	30 38
Bankston	16
Dorrisville	217 314

High school enrollment Tuesday was 840. This is a gain over last year. Some new territory was added to the district this year, but a detailed analysis of the enrollment whether that was the full cause of the increase.

By classes the High School enrollment was: Freshmen 274; Sophomores 222; Juniors 195; Seniors 149; post graduate 2.

Hunted Vienna Man Captured Along Rt. 45

Jailbreaker Sought Nine Days; Charged With Killing Woman

VIENNA, Ill. (CP)—Thomas L. Latham, Vienna Negro accused of murder who escaped from the Johnson County jail nine days ago, was captured near here shortly before noon today, state police reported.

State Police Lt. Elza Brantley said state police and sheriff's officers captured Latham, 31, along U. S. 45 near here. Latham, who is accused of the murder of Mrs. Maggie Gray, 62, Vienna, had been hunted by law officers and posses since he escaped from his cell Aug. 31.

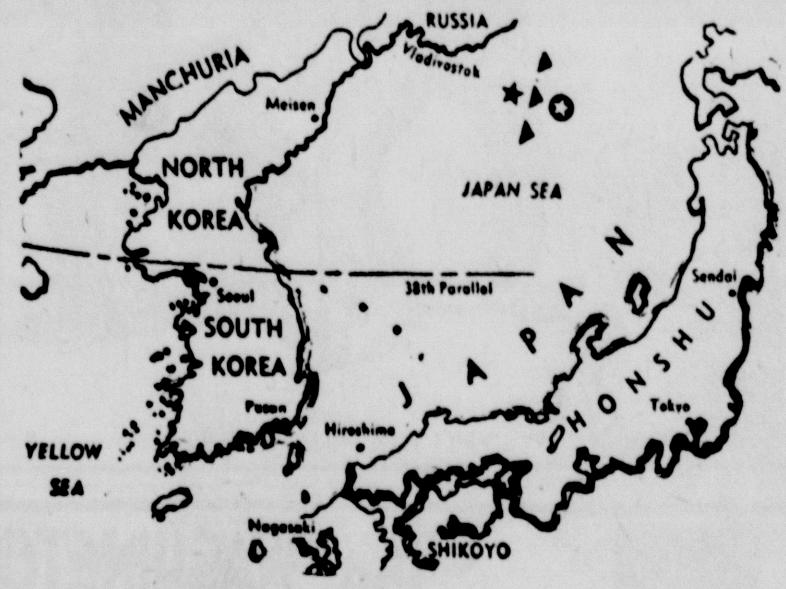

Brantley said varying numbers of state police had maintained a day and night patrol in this area along with sheriff's officers.

Latham is accused of beating Mrs. Gray during a break-in at her home Aug. 2. The elderly woman died 10 days later of her injuries.

Three Boys Charged With Stealing Gasoline

Three Eldorado youths, Paul Potts, James Ashby and Robert Brooks, are being held in the Saline county jail, charged with taking gasoline from a pump on the Otis Carter farm, north of Eldorado, Sheriff Paul Spangler reported.

The boys were picked up Tuesday and admitted to State Attorney Glen Jones they had taken the gasoline, Spangler said.

MIGs ATTACK PATROL BOMBER—The Russians appear to have extended their boundaries 44 miles into the Sea of Japan as indicated by a Russian note handed to U. S. Fighter planes of the MIG type attacked the Neptune bomber and downed it in the Sea of Japan. One crewman died in the attack. Nine others were rescued. (NEA Telephoto)

Factory Footings are Poured, 35 Ellis Men Living in Area

Bob Davenport Makes Report to Joint Meeting of Harrisburg Civic Clubs; Hudes Living in City

Bob Davenport, chairman of the Jaycees committee for industrial development, spoke at the joint meeting of Harrisburg civic clubs Tuesday evening. The meeting, sponsored by the Harrisburg Kiwanis club, was held at the Masonic temple.

Mr. Davenport, who also is Jaycee state chairman for new industry, briefly outlined the progress made by the Ellis Trucking Co., and also the new factory for the manufacture of plastic products.

About 35 families associated with the Ellis company are now living in this area and most of them are living in Harrisburg, it was reported.

The building for the plastic products will be 40 by 300 feet and the concrete footings have been poured, Davenport said.

Work is being rushed on a smaller building, 40 by 90 feet, that will eventually be a storeroom, but it is hoped it will be sufficiently completed for use in limited production within four weeks, with employment for about 20 persons.

When the industry is in full production, more than 200 will be employed, according to present plans.

Plans now call for the production of cigarette lighters and a camping stove. It is said there is an order for 500,000 of the stoves now.

Irving Hudes is the manufacturer and he and his family are now residing in Harrisburg and his children are enrolled in the city schools.

Mr. Davenport stressed the fact there had been a fine spirit of cooperation and it was appreciated by everyone. Although there is nothing definite, it was said there are several other developments to brighten the local business outlook.

Today the Jaycees renewed their campaign for funds to further the industrial development in Harrisburg.

John Schork, president of the Kiwanis club, was master of ceremonies of the meeting and the presidents of the various civic organizations introduced the members of their clubs present.

Strength of Army Depends on Wives

It urged the commanders to "fully exploit" the wives' clubs as part of a re-enlistment campaign.

7. Include the entire territories of the Asian parties and the general area of the Southwest Pacific except that part north of 21 degrees 30 minutes latitude.

Planes Supplied Chiang by U. S. Hit Five Points

Sink Ten Junks and Destroy Several Troop Barracks

By WILLIAM MILLER
United Press Staff Correspondent
TAIPEI, Formosa (CP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek hurled his American-made jet warplanes into the battle of Quemoy Island today for the first time.

The jets blasted Communist junks encircling Quemoy and bombarded troop installations and artillery emplacements which are within shell range on the Communist-held China mainland.

Defense Ministry officials announced that several waves of the newly supplied jets swept over five points around the Red port of Amoy as a joint naval-air attack entered its third day.

Red Batteries Open Fire
The planes sank 10 junks and destroyed several troop barracks, the officials said.

Communist shore batteries opened fire on the island again following an all-night lull. Four barrages were reported.

A defense ministry spokesman said there was no evidence of an air buildup near Amoy and "no appreciable increase in junk strength."

The main Red strength was reported to center around the Shanghai area and the Nationalists alerted authorities on Tachen Island, 200 miles north of Formosa, to the threat of attack.

Could Be Diversionary Tactic
Some quarters speculated that the shelling of Quemoy may only be a diversionary tactic in preparation for an eventual invasion of Tachen.

Others believed, however, that the threat to Quemoy was ever increasing.

At 6:30 p. m. EDT Tuesday, shortly after the Nationalist warplanes took off on their mission, unidentified aircraft approached Quemoy and an air alert was ordered for 30 minutes.

The approaching planes, presumed to be Red Chinese, did not reach the island. It was the first sign of Communist air activity since the Quemoy crisis started last Friday with the shelling of the island by Red shore-based batteries. Two American officers were killed.

THE HELPING HANDS

J.R. WILLIAMS

DREW PEARSON Says: He
And His Contemporaries Have Failed Their Grandsons All Over The World; Wars Are Built Slowly From Small Events Similar To Those Which Led Up To World War II.

WASHINGTON. — During the past two weeks I have been a long way from the death pangs of EDC and the coverings of the French Chamber of Deputies.

For when you're watching a seven-year-old grandson learn to swim, or herd cows to pasture; or bring a new-born calf in from pasture on the back of a truck in such a way that its mother will follow—well things in the rest of the world seem very far away and very unimportant.

Yet I couldn't help but think as we caught minnows in a lazy, muddy creek, and collected tadpoles in a mason jar, and cut sapling props to keep overloaded peach tree limbs from breaking, that what was happening in France, the vote that was taken in the chamber of deputies vitally affected the future of the red-headed, freckled-faced boy more than anything that has happened in his seven carefree years. Probably, too, it affects the world more than anything that has happened since December 7, 1941, or even since March 7, 1938, the day Hitler invaded the Ruhr.

My grandson has gone now. Only his somewhat tattered swimming trunks hang on the clothes-line to remind me of those two weeks when my youth was lived over again. I am left with an empty typewriter and the thought of how I and my contemporaries have failed him and other grandsons all over the world.

For wars are not brewed in a day. They come slowly — incidentally upon incident, suspicion piled on suspicion. And what the vote in the French Chamber of Deputies means is that my grandson and thousands of other grandsons will certainly have to march off to war—once again.

HOW WARS START

Sitting here at an empty typewriter, looking out at the bathing trunks, I can see far beyond to a chain of events, many of which I, as a newspaperman, covered, events which could have built for peace, but which were allowed to drift and carried us into war.

First there was Henry L. Stimson, idealistic, vigorous old secretary of state under Hoover, whom I watched grapple with the Japanese invasion of Manchuria in 1931. Stimson saw the invasion for what it was — the beginnings of Japanese conquest of Asia, the beginning of World War II. Valiantly he strove to rally the peace machinery of the world, to persuade isolationist forces inside the Republican party to go along with him. He failed. It was division among our rallies, division inside the Republican party that caused the failure . . . if he had succeeded a generation might have been spared from marching off to war.

After this, the dictators got stronger. Japan marched almost at will through China. Mussolini swaggered into helpless Ethiopia, thumbed his nose at the League of Nations' efforts to stop him. . . .
Again the world's peace machinery weakened. . . . Roosevelt and Summer Welles took another try at bolstering it when they called the Brussels conference in 1936 to apply sanctions to Japan's war jabs. . . . They also failed. . . .
This time it was division among the Democrats and among our allies that caused the failure. Cordell Hull did not like Summer Welles. England was suspicious of the U. S. . . . So the world drifted.

FRANCE VACILLATES

By the time Hitler ordered his SS Corps into the Ruhr and Rhin-land, the democracies were well weakened. Each time it was weakened war became more certain.
All day on that famous March 7, 1938, the French cabinet debated. Should it mobilize? Should it resist the SS Corps? All day the special telephone line between Paris and London was kept open.
If England would back up France, France would resist Hitler. . . . but England held aloof. . . . On that day Hitler obtained the coal and steel resources of the Ruhr. On that day war became certain.

These were the mistakes we sought to avoid after World War II. That was why we organized the United Nations—and NATO — and sought to organize EDC, the United European Army. . . . That was also why Eisenhower was picked by Harry Truman to go to Europe in the winter of 1951. . . . I visited Eisenhower in Paris at that time, where I learned his plans to organize a friendship train for Europe, a series of exhibits to tour the continent to sell Europeans on the importance of unity, make them realize that it was disunity that had caused the wars of the past. . . . But the British had said no. Either they distrusted Eisenhower or else they opposed unity. . . . Later in London I talked with various British cabinet officers, told them of my experiences with the American friendship train in Europe, urged the importance of selling the idea of European unity.
I came away convinced Britain still believed in the ancient, outmoded policy of divide and rule.

LIKE HESITATES

A year passed. . . . again in Paris, talking to Eisenhower, it was suggested that unless he could put the United European Army before he left Paris to run for President, it would never be put across. . . .
Ike's future record as a great President might come to naught if the United European Army failed; it was also suggested. . . . more important, the peace of the world might come to naught. . . . and our sons and grandsons might march off to war again. . . . Ike's reply was that he was a military man, had been sent to Paris as a military man. He could not stop beyond military bounds to work at the political job of European unity.
So the world drifted. . . . daily more divided. In Germany in 1953, I suggested to Ernst Reuter, mayor of Berlin, that he invite the mayor of Paris to Berlin as a step

Adduci's Nomination
Accepted

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The State Electoral Board voted unanimously yesterday to accept the second nomination petition of James J. Adduci as a Republican candidate for the Illinois House.
The board, which a week ago today held Adduci's first nomination for state representative from Chicago's 2nd District was invalid, approved the re-nomination of Ad-duci at a 10-minute hearing.

Between the two meetings, the GOP senatorial committee of the 2nd District had reorganized to meet objections raised to the first nomination petition.

Atty. Gen. Latham Castle, a member of the board, said the second set of nominating papers had been "carefully examined" for any invalidities.

"As far as we can see there is no legal reason why we shouldn't accept this nomination petition," Castle told the board.

He added that in the absence of any formal objections filed with the board, "we have to accept these papers on their face."

State Auditor Orville E. Hodge then moved to accept the petition and Secretary of State Charles F.
Carpenter seconded his motion.
The voice vote was unanimous.

Increases in Veteran Pensions to Come Automatically Oct. 1

Nearly 116,000 Illinois veterans and certain dependents of decessed veterans will receive a 5 per cent increase in monthly compensation and pension payments effective October 1, 1954, under two bills signed by the President on August 28, 1954.

Flat increases in excess of 5 per cent were granted to widows and dependent parents of wartime veterans whose deaths were attributable to service.

Robert D. Beer, Illinois Veterans Administration Regional office manager, said the increases are automatic and will be included in checks mailed at the end of October.

He requested veterans and dependents not to write to the Veterans Administration concerning the increases because they are payable automatically.

Mr. Beer explained that compensation is payable for service-connected disabilities or deaths and that pension is payable for non-service connected disabilities or deaths.

First Baptist Missionary Round Table Has Luncheon

The Missionary Round Table of the W. M. U. of the First Baptist church met for a pot-luck luncheon Friday at the home of Mrs. L. I. Webb, 408 North Webster.

Following the luncheon a discussion of the book, "Persia Is My Heart," the autobiography of Najmeh Najafi, a native of modern Iran who, at the time the book was written in 1951, was a student in a college in California was given by Mrs. D. H. Hiller.

The book tells in a most interesting way of life in Iran in a wealthy Moslem home, and of Miss Najafi's growing interest and concern in the poor people of her country. She had come to America to study, and to find ways by which they might be helped, but though she looked and dressed like an American college girl, she says "Persia Is My Heart."

The Round Table members were glad to welcome a guest, Mrs. Willie Cummins of Ingram, Hill church, and two new members, Mrs. Elmer Tuttle and Mrs. L. F. Waite.

The next meeting of the Round Table will be with Mrs. R. J. Morrison, 8 East Walnut, and the book "The Bridge of Heaven" will be discussed by Mrs. Charles Wilson.

Mrs. Grace Hull, 1420 South Ledford, is now in Pontiac, Mich., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bragg.

Mrs. Mary McQueen is now visiting in Golconda with relatives and friends.

Worthy Grand Matron Visits Harrisburg Chapter Of Order of Eastern Star

Harrisburg Chapter No. 671 of the Order of Eastern Star, on vacation during the hot months of summer, began the fall series of meetings Saturday night with an official visit by the worthy grand matron, Mrs. Clara A. Harbaugh, Deatur.

In honor of Mrs. Harbaugh and other Grand chapter officers who have accompanied her on a round of O. E. S. Chapter visits in southern Illinois, a dinner party was held in the Masonic temple dining room at 6:30 p. m. attended by visitors and local chapter members. Tables were decorated with yellow roses, the favorite flower of the worthy grand matron, whose colors are green and yellow and whose theme for the year is "Christianity Achieves Happiness."

This theme was the subject of her remarks to the Eastern Stars assembled in the chapter room, which set an attendance record for this year. Christian living as a means to peace was her recommendation to all members of the Order.

Mrs. Wendell Bramlet, worthy matron, and G. B. Wiley, worthy patron of the Harrisburg chapter, had the pleasure of introducing numerous visiting worthy matrons and worthy patrons, and several grand representatives were present. Mrs. Anna E. Fogal, Quincy, an Eastern Star for 64 years, and Mrs. J. B. Blackman, Harrisburg, a member restricted in attendance by an injury for three years, were singled out for special greetings by the worthy matron and worthy patron, and by the Grand Officers.

The latter included Adela Maynard, grand chaplain; Grace Jenkins, grand marshal; Ida Reckart, grand Esther; Henrietta Pinkney, grand Martha; Carrie Mitchell, grand Electa; and Evelyn J. Lemke, grand sentinel.

Mrs. R. C. Davenport, Harrisburg, a past worthy grand matron, was invited to make a special address of welcome and appreciation of the visit of the grand officers, and in her usual cordial way, she not only welcomed the friends from Grand chapter, but complimented the officers of Chapter 671 upon their efficient and smooth running program for the official visit.

Newly decorated in green and gray, sparked with red draperies and tapestry, the chapter room and lounge presented a beautiful appearance, and six large fans helped to make the large attendance comfortable on this warm but proud occasion.

Dentist Ruled Insane After Killing Lover of Wife Freed from Asylum

IONIA, Mich. (AP)—Society dentist Kenneth B. Small who killed the New York executive who had wooed his wife was set free today by Circuit Judge Morris K. Davis.

Small, who killed Jules Lack, 45, wealthy New York air conditioning executive May 29, had been confined to the hospital since Aug. 12 after a jury ruled he was insane when he drove 200 miles across Michigan to shoot Lack.

The jury ruled that Small was driven insane when Lack wooed away his wife, Edith, 30. As a result, Small was committed to the hospital for the rest of his life or until he regained his sanity.

Lost Tombstone Of Lincoln's Son Found in Springfield

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—The "lost" tombstone of Abraham Lincoln's second son has been found, it was disclosed today.

Dr. Harry E. Pratt, state historian, reported that the white marble tombstone used in the first burial of 3-year-old Eddie Lincoln had been found in Oak Ridge cemetery after being missing 89 years.

Pratt said the 24 by 48 inch slab was found face down, broken diagonally, serving as an entrance stone to the burial plot of Illinois Gov. Ninian Edwards and his descendants.

The historian said the discovery was made by retired Springfield Postmaster William A. Steiger and cemetery director Arnold Kugler. Steiger has been taking photographs of grave markers of Springfieldians who were associated with Lincoln, Pratt said.

The tombstone bears the carving of a dove in flight and this inscription:

"Edward B., son of Abraham & Mary Lincoln. Died Feb. 1, 1850, aged 3 years 10 months 18 days. Of such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

Pratt said the stone was used in the burial of Eddie Lincoln in Hutchinson's cemetery. The body later was removed to Oak Ridge cemetery, where Abraham Lincoln was entombed after his assassination in 1865.

Thurmond Begins Write-in Campaign For U. S. Senator

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP)—Former Gov. J. Strom Thurmond today began a write-in Democratic campaign for the U. S. Senate in a race against a one-time supporter of Adlai Stevenson.

Thurmond, who ran for president in 1948 as the states' rights candidate, said he is a Democrat and will vote as a Democrat if he defeats the regular party candidate, State Sen. Edgar A. Brown.

The stage for Thurmond's write-in campaign was set last week when the State Democratic Executive committee appointed Brown the candidate in the November election, replacing the late Sen. Burnet R. Maybank as a candidate.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty refused to make contents of the letter public.

At the summer White House today, Hagerty also announced that on Friday, Sept. 10, Mr. Eisenhower will have breakfast with the Association of Midwest and Rocky Mountain Republican State Chairmen.

In what might be an important congressional election year conference, the President will meet with the GOP state chairmen of Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Illinois, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Utah, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

McCarthy Says Told Army About Peress

He attended a public subcommittee hearing in New York at the time Peress was on the witness stand.

He said that three Army officers, one of them a brigadier general, sat in a row of seats directly behind him and slightly to the right.

"I distinctly heard him mutter

During the course of the hearing, under his breath "You S. O. B.," he said, McCarthy called on Zwicker, who was Peress' commanding officer at Camp Kilmer, N. J., to stand up. He said the brigadier general behind him stood up and engaged in a colloquy with McCarthy.

As Zwicker was resuming his seat, Zwicker said, the general's lips were only about 12 or 13 inches from McCarthy's ear.

"I distinctly heard him mutter

Harding said.

Zwicker, who was present in the hearing room today, told reporters he had "no comment" about Harding's testimony.

After hearing Harding briefly, Committee Chairman Arthur V. Watkins (R-Utah) recessed the public hearing and called a closed session to decide whether to order Lawton to testify.

McCarthy's attorney, Edward B.

Williams, said McCarthy would not ask the committee to order the general to testify. Williams said the Wisconsin senator did not wish to embarrass the general or subject him to possible reprisal.

Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.) said that "if no matter of national security was involved... it seems to me this committee is being deprived of information it ought to have."

Uncertain Illinois Line Leaves Big Ten Grid Race Wide Open; Wisconsin, Iowa Good

By RAY ELIOT
Head Coach, Illinois
CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — (NEA) — Big Ten coaches have a gentleman's agreement not to put each other on the spot.

It's a pact that couldn't possibly disturb my conscience when I survey the conference field.

I heard one of my sports writing friends break down the Western Conference into a 4-2-4 arrangement. He lumped Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois and Michigan State into one group (though not necessarily in that order), shading closely Ohio State and Michigan, and followed by Northwestern, Minnesota, Purdue and Indiana.

I was reminded how little form means in our circuit by Purdue's 6-0 upset last year of Rose Bowl champion Michigan State—and this year's Boilermakers are rated an improved squad.

Wisconsin, a perennial contender, would need only Alan (The Horse) Ameche, who trampled us at Madison last year, to make the Badgers a contender. But in addition, Ivy Williamson can muster Jim Miller, a 1953 quarterback surprise who, I understand, might play some single wing tailback; guard Clarence Stensby, end Ron Locklin and center Gary Messner—all fine players.

REFER ONLY to Notre Dame for Iowa's worth. Winners of their last three in the Big Ten before the Irish in their finale, the Hawkeyes come neck with the leaders of that squad, Capt. George Broder leads a veteran backfield, with a potential All-America, Calvin Jones, fronting a depth-laden line.

At Illinois, we have problems. People look only at our running backs — J. C. Caroline, Mickey Bates and sophomore newcomer Abe Woodson—but forget that we lost six of seven line starters. Our lone returnee, Jan Smid, is a good one. Reserve tackles from 1953 must develop quickly. We're a little unsettled at quarterback, where Em Lindbeck and Bob Gonzaga are the only experienced hands.

You can't discount the material Biggie Munn willled Duffy Daugherty at Michigan State when it includes players the caliber of halfbacks LeRoy Bolden and John Matosko, the latter shifted from quarterback; quarterback Earl Morrill, fullback Gerry Planutis, ends Ellis Duckett and Don Kauth and guard Hank Bullough.

OHIO STATE HAS its usual vast slow in the line but certainly not in the backfield with Bobby Watkins and Hopalong Cassidy. Quarterback Johnny Borton, a real scholar, is reported recovering from his ankle trouble. There was never anything wrong with his throwing.

Michigan has outstanding backs in Tony Branoff and Lou Baldacci, an unusual quarterback who can block and pass. The Wolverines lost a lot through graduation, but strong sophomores make them hopeful. The hopes are boosted by an All-America type tackle, Art Walker.

Northwestern could surprise a lot of folks, including Illinois, because of the little turnover in personnel. Twenty-six lettermen are back, led by center John Damore. The Wildcats need only a top quarterback.

MINNESOTA LOST Paul Giel, which could be calamitous, but Murray Warmath isn't singing the blues. They grow them big in the Northland. Halfback Bob McNamara is but one example.

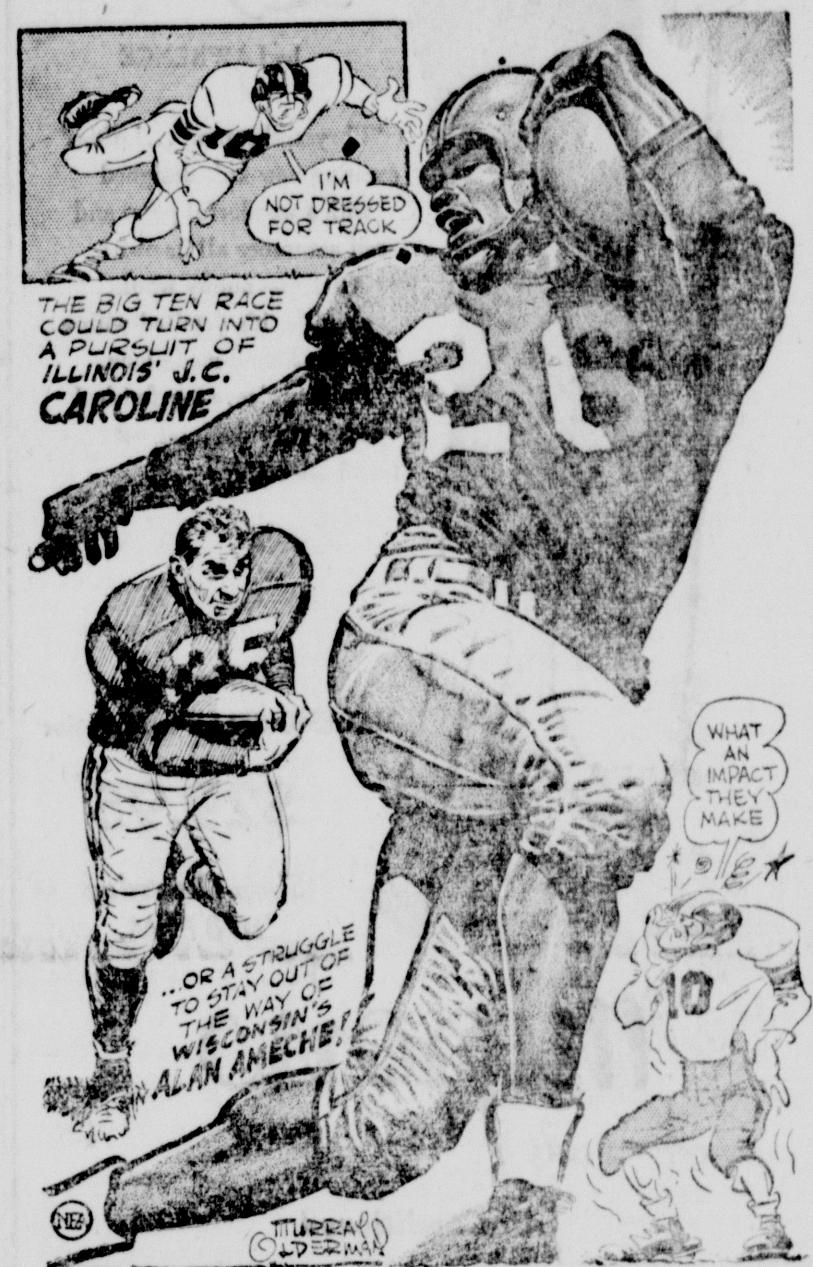

On rebuilding programs that could pay off any time are Indiana and Purdue. The Hoosiers may have the sophomore phenomenon of the season in Milt Campbell, the amazingly versatile halfback who was the 1953 national dectathlon champion.

There's always an upset awaiting a complacent foe at Lafayette, where the Boilermakers come up with guards like All-Conference Tom Bettis and slick quarterback Frankie Gutman.

HIT AND RUN

Death Takes Pop Warner, Grid Mentor

PALO ALTO, Calif. — Glenn Scobey (Pop) Warner, the "old fox" of the gridiron, will be laid to rest in a Palo Alto cemetery Thursday, within punting distance of the Stanford campus where he performed the greatest of his football miracles.

The 83-year-old grid wizard, once voted the "football coach of all the years," died shortly after noon Tuesday after making a gallant goal line stand against death from cancer.

Funeral services will be held at the Roller and Hagood Chapel here with private burial rites in Alta Mesa cemetery on the fringe of the campus.

His last conscious wish was that money his friends might spend for flowers or other tributes be donated to the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund instead.

Warner entered the hospital in mid-July for an operation to remove a throat tumor. He rallied well during early August, but relapsed and started a steady decline about three weeks ago. He went into a coma late Monday night and died without regaining consciousness.

At his bedside were his widow, Tibb Lorraine Warner, whom he married in 1899; his niece, Mrs. Jane Warner Scofield, and Ben Winkelman, his long-time friend and former coaching assistant at Stanford. He had no children.

Pop, as he was universally known, coached football for 44 years in such gridiron powerhouses as Cornell, Georgia, Carlisle, Pittsburgh, Stanford and Temple universities.

Known as one of the great creators in the sport, he was credited with revolutionizing the game with his development of the dazzling single and double wing attacks which confounded opponents.

Looking AT Sports

By BILL MELTON

Ball players accuse umpires of guessing—fans accuse managers of mistakes in strategy—and the managers accuse critical fans of seeing things. The Sporting News Baseball Quiz goes the managers a couple of guesses better—it gives the fan four guesses!

Here is how you play the game: Mark your choices 1-2-3-4. If you're right on the first choice you score ten points; you get five for a second, three for a third and one for a correct fourth pick. If your score is twenty points or better, you're an above-average baseball fan. Fifty points—you're perfect!

1. This one is easy—all you have to do is name the umpire who does not work in the same league with the other five.

() Barlick () Dixon () Gorman () Dascoli () Gore () Paparella

2. The players listed below played in less than ten games in the major leagues in 1943—only one of them is in the major leagues today. Who is he?

() Charles Gilbert () George Jeffcoat () Casimer Kwietniewski (pronounced kwee-it-new-skee) () Al Olson () Charles Roberts () LeRoy Talcott

3. This one has to do with tall players—and their height is a matter of record in The Baseball Register, with the exception of Rookie Ron Jackson of the Chicago White Sox. All of the players are 6-5 and over. Which one is the tallest?

() Conley () Jackson () Rush () Droppo () Minner () Sullivan

4. A total of 41 times this season (to the morning of September 3) major league players had made four hits in four times at bat. What team's players have had the most "4-for-4" days?

() Cardinals () Dodgers () White Sox () Cubs () Indians () Yankees

5. Eight players have gone "five-for-five" this year (up to the morning of September 3). Ted Williams and Clint Courtney were the only American Leaguers to accomplish the feat. Joe Garagiola had one of the big days in the National—and Joe Adcock the really big one when he hit four home runs and a double. Of the players listed below, who had "5-for-5" days, only one also had "4-for-4" on two occasions. Who is he?

() Dark () Furillo () Jackson () Mueller

Answers to The Sporting News baseball quiz will appear in this column Thursday.

John Romonosky won victory number three in the American Association recently with a hitless relief appearance for Columbus against Kansas City. He went in to stop a Kansas City rally that put the Blues ahead 4-3, then Columbus rallied for two in the ninth to win 5-4.

The Mt. Vernon Rams, defending champions in the South Seven, start the 1954 grid season with no members of last year's first eleven, but do have eight returning lettermen. Mt. Vernon's season starts at Herrin Sept. 21, then the Rams play on the road, at Albion Oct. 1, before beginning their home season Oct. 8, with the Harrisburg Bull Dogs furnishing the opposition. The Rams play an eight game schedule, meeting all other members of South Seven, plus Albion and Salem.

Bob Beal, Bull Dog football star of recent years, may see varsity grid action at Memphis State in his first year there if early reports develop. A sports story in the Memphis Commercial says Head Coach Ralph Hatley of Memphis State expects to find the answer to some of his problems in first year men.

Quoting from the story: "At least three first-year tackles have given Tiger mentor early indication that they will be ready for first team action this season."

Beal, a 240 pound, 6 foot, one inch freshman, was listed among these. Another southern Illinois freshman who may see first string action at Memphis State is Bart Hammack, Murphysboro.

THE QUEEN—Lovely Henriette Lambert, left, beams after being named "Queen of the Riviera," in Nice, France. Congratulating her is Dominique Germain of Juan-Les-Pins.

Big Ten Practices, Injuries Result; Eliot Works on Line

By United Press

Injuries plagued Big Ten football teams today as workouts continued in preparation for the opening of the 1954 season.

Michigan State end Noel Bufe broke his right thumb during Tuesday's scrimmage, for the second Spartan injury this season. Ray Eggleston, a halfback, suffered a knee injury last week and doctors said he would be out for the rest of the season.

Three University of Michigan players were ordered to report to the training room for medical treatment. Among the injured was end Scott Crisler, son of Michigan's Athletic Director H. O. (Fritz) Crisler, who was treated for a neck ailment.

Halfback Tom Hendricks re-injured a leg muscle, and the other Wolverine on the disabled list was guard Jim Fox with a neck ailment.

Among Ohio State's injured were guards Jim Reichenbach and Jerry Williams. Reichenbach sprained an ankle and Williams was kicked in the head.

Face Full-Dress Scrimmage
A full four-quarter scrimmage, complete with officials, is on tap for the Buckeyes Friday.

At Iowa, fullback Binkey Broder came up with a pulled back muscle as Coach Forest Evashevski put his team through two scrimmage sessions. Evashevski changed the lineup every three or four plays in the workouts.

The Wisconsin football squad worked on blocking, passing and pass defense in a pair of two-hour drills. An injury marred the sessions. Guard Arnold Ludwig hurt his knee and was expected to be out for the entire season.

Coach Stu Holcomb sent his Purdue squad through intensive drills on fundamentals and said the team was improving "a little bit each day." He said he was pleased with the passing of quarterback Frankie Gutman.

Brocker Looks Good
Northwestern's Ed Brocker shared work at first-string quarterback with John Rearden in an impressive scrimmage. Training camp observers said that Brocker, a sophomore, excelled in both running and passing.

Illinois Coach Ray Eliot said the line will receive most of the attention during this week's drills. Eliot was convinced of his backfield's worth, but said he had doubts about the line.

Indiana's first scrimmage of the practice season was cut short Tuesday because of wet grounds. Coach Bernie Crimmins said, "We've still got a long way to go before the Ohio State opener Sept. 25."

Coach Murray Warmath put his Minnesota squad through its second scrimmage, after he said the first session was "ragged."

Andrews Favored to Whip Hughes Tonight

CHICAGO — Paul Andrews was an 11-5 favorite today to whip Bobby Hughes in tonight's television fight, but the ex-paratrooper could be upset by a battler who has scored 19 knockouts in winning 22 pro fights.

Hughes, 26, is ranked 10th among the light heavyweights compared to third for Andrews, who has been beaten only three times in 31 pro bouts.

Giants Hike Lead by Beating Phillies in 11th

By JOHN GRIFFIN

United Press Sports Writer
The cocky New York Giants rode home today on the wings of their 13th "last gasp" victory of the season to open their final home stand—a 12 game span during which they hope to clinch the National league pennant.

Combining up with the inspired coming of a clutch double by Monte Irvin and clutch relief pitching by Hoyt Wilhelm, the Giants scored a 3-1, 11-inning victory over the Phillies at Philadelphia Tuesday night to extend their league lead over the idle second-place Milwaukee Braves to 4½ games.

Now, starting with a day game today against the Chicago Cubs, the Giants will be at home for almost two weeks while the Braves "hit the road" for the same length of time.

It's true that the Braves have the best record of any team in the league—42 wins and 23 defeats. And it's true that Braves' Manager Charley Grimm, whose club has won its last nine games in a row, is talking about winning "10 out of 12" on the road.

But the Giants figure this way: The "magic number" of Giant victories is down to 15. The Giants can reach that figure by winning nine of their 12 home games—if the Braves should only break even with a 6-6 record on this trip.

It's starting to look more and more as if the three-game Giants-Braves series opening in New York Sept. 17 could be the key to the whole season.

The Giants had plenty of opportunities to buckle under pressure Tuesday night, but came through in true championship style with the clutch plays in the field and at bat.

Four times the New Yorkers flashed through lightning double plays to kill off Phillies' rallies. Then, when a walk issued by Curt Simmons of the Phillies to Davey Williams to open the 11th inning gave them a chance to score, they struck hard.

Walk to Mays Backfires
Williams was moved to second by a sacrifice. Simmons fanned pinch-hitter Eric Rodin for the second out but then purposely passed the dangerous Willie Mays.

The strategy exploded when Irvin, riding the bench for weak hitting recently, lashed a line drive double against the scoreboard in right-center to score both Williams and Mays.

The Giants got their first run in the second inning on a walk to Mays, a single by Irvin, and a double play. Gomez, who gained credit for his 14th victory, shut out the Phillies until the eighth when Granny Hamner hit his 13th homer of the season.

In the only other major league game Tuesday, Frank Shea pitched two-hit relief ball for six innings to give the Washington Senators a 5-4 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics.

Hurler Spencer Goes Back to N. Y. Giants

NEW YORK — George Spencer, a right hander who had a 10-4 record with the New York Giants in 1951, was scheduled to re-join the club today from Minneapolis. The Giants obtained Spencer from their American Association farm club to bolster their overworked staff for their drive for the National League pennant. Spencer had a 6-7 record with Minneapolis, appearing in about 60 games in relief for that club this season.

Three Eldorado Men Visit with Herbert Hoover

On a recent visit to New York City, Vachel Davis, Rev. T. M. Jolly and Conrad Hoit, all of Eldorado, had the honor of a visit with the Honorable Herbert Hoover, ex-President of the United States, at his home, The Towers, atop the Waldorf Astoria.

Mr. Hoover received these men in a very cordial manner and talked at length with them. He inquired about coal mining conditions in southern Illinois and stated that he was at one time connected with the coal mining industry.

At one point in the conversation he inquired of Rev. Jolly about his ministry in the coal fields and made inquiry of Mr. Davis as to how "the artist business" was coming along.

Davis had previously met Mr. Hoover, having been received at the White House, during his presidency.

Mr. Hoover, they declare, looked hale and hearty—and much younger than his eighty years. After the parting hand-shake with the ex-President, they left feeling that they had been privileged to meet and talk with one of the greatest living Americans.

BITTER SAGE

By Frank Gruber

XXIX

Dave Helm tied his horse to the hitchrail at Fugger's store and, crossing the sidewalk, knocked at the door. Hong Kong Smith opened it.

"It's done," Dave said, entering. Hong Kong Smith took out a huge white handkerchief from his breast pocket and mopped his forehead. He looked at Jacob Fugger. "Satisfied?"

"He wouldn't have it any other way," Fugger said. "He kept crowding me all the time."

"Oh, shut up," said Hong Kong Smith. He gestured to Dave Helm. "Come on."

The Texas Saloon was more crowded than it had ever been in its four years' existence. They were standing two and three deep at the bar, but Smith grabbed a man by the arm and whirled him away. Another man he elbowed aside. And once he reached the bar he used his huge bulk to shove a space clear for Dave Helm.

Helm sipped at the whiskey and a warm glow spread through him. Lily Leeds stepped up on the little platform and began to sing.

She sang the song of Sam Older and Wes Tancred and there was a catch in her voice and a huskiness that had never been there before and men in the room became silent and listened. A man stopped whirling a chuck-a-luck cage and a faro dealer covered his box with his hands and stared at the layout before him.

At the bar, Dave Helm listened to the song and the knuckles of his hand whitened as his fingers closed about the glass in his fist and finally the glass collapsed and he let the broken pieces fall to the floor.

Lily finished the song and for a moment there was a dead silence in the crowded saloon. Then a man clapped and the others took it up until the room vibrated from the concussion. Lily, her face taut, her eyes stony, walked through the room to her office. She put her hand on the door to go in and could not. She couldn't go into the little room where Wes Tancred had revealed himself that afternoon. She could not go into the room... alone.

Hong Kong Smith boomed, "Mighty good singing Lily girl, mighty good."

Lily looked at the strained face and the piercing eyes of Dave Helm. "You didn't like it?"

"I liked your singing, ma'am," replied Dave Helm. "I didn't like the song."

Lily stared at him. "Someone else told me that." Her eyes fell to Dave's hand. "You're bleeding!"

Helm opened his hand and looked at the blood on his palm. "It's nothing, ma'am, just a little cut."

Lily's eyes dropped to the floor, saw the little shards of glass. Her eyes came up to meet Helm's once more. "Why don't you like the song?"

"Cause it ain't true, ma'am," Helm said, simply. "Sam Older was never no hero and Wes Tancred wasn't any coward. The song is a lie, ma'am."

"You," said Lily Leeds, "are Dave Helm."

He made an odd little bow. "You know him," Lily said. "You talked to him today."

"Wes Tancred, ma'am? Why, yes, he came along this afternoon and we had a little talk."

Hong Kong Smith's huge right hand reached out and struck Helm's shoulder. "Wes Tancred?" Helm wrenched his shoulder free of Smith's grip and faced his employer, a spot of color on each cheek. "Don't do that again, Mr. Smith!" he said, softly.

"This Tancred you're talking about," cried Smith. "He's here in Sage City?"

"Why, yes!"

Lee Kinnaird came along the bar. He was coatless and a star was pinned on the left side of his shirt. His face was sober, his eyes like those of an eagle, searching for prey.

He came up to the group and said, "Luke Miller was killed 15 minutes ago."

"Oh, no!" gasped Lily. "Fugger wouldn't dare."

"He dared all right."

Hong Kong Smith pointed a thick forefinger at the star on Kinnaird's chest. "You didn't waste any time pinning that on."

Kinnaird said, "Fugger himself hasn't got the nerve to kill a prairie dog and Eric Stratemeyer was in McCoy's all evening, so it was one of your men who did the job."

"Maybe," sneered Smith, "then again maybe it was your friend, what's he been calling himself?—Bailey. Shooting people when they ain't looking's in his line." He stopped, as Kinnaird's eyes bored into him. "Or maybe you didn't know your fine friend was the dirty coward, Wes Tancred?"

"So that's why he's left town!"

"What?" cried Smith. "He's run out? That proves his guilt."

"It proves only that he's gone," retorted Kinnaird. "Mrs. Miller saw the killer. It wasn't," he continued firmly, "John Bailey."

Laura Vesser was in bed, but not asleep when Mrs. Martin came to her room. "I—I thought you might want to know, Mr. Miller, the newspaper, publisher, has been killed."

Laura gasped in dismay. She sprang out of bed. "How—how was he killed?" she asked, fearfully.

"I don't know rightly," Mrs. Miller told the sheriff that someone knocked on their door and when Mr. Miller answered, he was shot down. But there's talk that a man working for him did the shooting."

"Not—John Bailey!"
